Cohiba Siglo II Cigar 42 Ring Gauge x 5 1/8". Medium Flavour, £38.00 Each Cuban handmade cigar. The Cohiba Siglo II cigar is certainly not what we have come to expect from Cohiba and their El Liguito factory. The petit corona utilises tobacco grown in Cuba's first-class plantations and goes through the fermentation process three times over the course of two years before the tobacco leaves are crafted into cigars by Cuba's master rollers, some of which have been making cigars since before the Cuban revolution! The cigar is similar to other Siglos in that it has a sweet creaminess to it along with bean flavours, however the smoke also provides a silky, oily woodiness which is uncommon for Cohiba Cigars.

Cohiba Siglo III Cigar 42 Ring Gauge x 6 1/8". Medium - Full Flavour, £50.00 Each Cuban handmade cigar. The Cohiba Siglo III Cigar is the standout of the other cigars in the Siglo series, with its distinctive flavours. Notes of grilled vanilla combine with spicy chocolate, deep cocoa, and a drip of chilli to spice up your tastebuds before they are cooled with the taste of rich and creamy leather polymerised with a dollop of fresh cream

Cohiba Siglo IV Cigar 46 Ring Gauge x 5.5/8". Medium-full Flavour £58.00 Each Cuban handmade cigar. Cohiba Siglo Robusto 50 Ring Gauge x 4.7/8". Medium -full Flavour, £65.00 Each Cuban handmade cigar. According to Habanos, only the highest-grade tobacco from the five finest farms in Cuba's Vuelta Abajo zone are selected for Cohiba's, but the Cuban monopoly won't name the plantations. The only thing we can verify with certainty is that Cohiba Robusto are sophisticated and delicious smokes, powerful cigars with notes of oak, vanilla, and almonds. There's a reason why people have been buying them with passion for so long.

Vegueros translates into English as 'Farmers' and these cigars have happily maintained their rustic edge. The names of each of the new vitolas have also taken inspiration from the Cuban farmers' vocabulary and the "Centrofinos" is no exception. Centro Fino is a classification for the leaves of the sun grown tobacco plant taken around mid-way up the plant. These generally constitute Seco leaves in the blend of a Havana cigar and are valued for their satisfying taste and aromas.
